LANDS NOT OPEN YET FOR MINERS

Indian reservation lands in Nevada which, under the Indian Service appropriation act of June 30, 1919, were to be thrown open for mineral location, have not been opened yet for location as far as the Indian agency has been informed.

Col. L. A. Dorrington of the office wrote to the department a few weeks ago and under date of August 3 received a letter stating that prospecting on Indian reservation lands would not be permitted until the secretary of the interior throws the land open, and did not state when he would issue the order throwing the land open.

Many prospectors in Nevada, and especially in Elko county, are waiting for the land to be thrown open, and a rumor that the order was effective caused a large number of prospectors in Elko county to go to Duck Valley reservation, near Jarbidge, to take up claims.

It is thought by the Indian Service here that permits will have to be secured by prospectors before they can go on the reservations and according to the act, leases must be secured from the interior department on all mineral lands located, the claims to be located in the same manner as mining claims are now located under the mining laws of the United States.

LAND VALUES WILL BE RAISED

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Information that Commissioner Curtis of Boston had declared positions of striking police vacant, Gompers said, "I suppose he is willing to assume responsibility for the consequences of his action."

At the close of a general discussion on land valuations established by various assessors and a debate on a report containing suggestions made by a special committee named to determine ways and means of increasing the assessed valuation of taxable property by $7,000,000, it seemed likely that land values throughout the state were due for a considerable boost. It also appeared from the special committee's report that the bulk of the $7,000,000 increase would be placed on land valuations.

The special committee appointed to report on ways and means for raising the $7,000,000 increased valuation necessary to meet the appropriations made by the last legislature suggested two plans. One is to allow the present assessed valuation of $195,000,000 to stand and assess on a basis of 94 per cent of the full cash value instead of 99 per cent.

The other was to apply the increase to land valuations in eleven counties in the state as follows:

Churchill, $337,790; Elko, $1,567,946; Douglas, $221,115; Humboldt, $650,131; Lander, $255,943; Lyon, $473,626; Mineral, $89,532; Nye, $592,197; Pershing, $288,220; Washoe, $1,402,938; White Pine, $322,562.

WAR CRIPPLES STUDY CLOCKS

(By Associated Press.)
LONDON, Sept. 13.—Fifty disabled soldiers, many of whom had lost a leg in the war and wore an artificial one in its place, climbed the 260 steps to the house of commons tower the other afternoon to study the mechanism of "Big Ben," the giant timepiece. The soldiers are being trained by the ministry of labor in watch and clock repairing.

One, spying the clock mechanism, exclaimed: "Is this the works? It looks more like a blinking printing machine."

A guide told the party that the clock was designed by Lord Grimthorpe and was placed in the tower in 1859. It has been working for sixty years and is still regarded as one of the best timekeepers in the world.

The minute hand is fourteen feet long and weighs 224 pounds, and the pendulum, which requires two seconds each swing, weighs 799 pounds. The bell, which sounds the hours, has a diameter of nine feet and weighs fourteen tons, the weight of the striking hammers being 750 pounds.

An electric motor now winds the clock in twenty minutes. Formerly it took two men working three afternoons a week to complete the task.

Mine and Millworkers Conduct Referendum On Accepting Offers

Complying with the directions of the mass meeting of miners held last evening at the Airdome, a referendum vote is being taken at the Airdome this afternoon. The voting began at noon and will continue to 6 o'clock this evening, when it will be announced whether the mine and mill workers of the Tonopah and Divide districts are willing to resume on the terms proposed by the mine operators.

The formal presentation of the question was in the form of the following resolution which was adopted unanimously:

"It is the decision of this meeting that all men employed in the mines, mills and shops in the Tonopah and Divide mining districts who shall be determined as qualified to vote by this body shall take a secret ballot between the hours of 12 noon and 6 p. m. Saturday, August 13, 1919, at the Airdome theater, and that these votes be counted all together, and that the majority decision shall be final as regards this settlement."

Men qualified to vote were described by the following resolution:

CAPACITY HOUSE AT THE MEETING

The call for a mass meeting of workers of the Tonopah and Divide districts brought out a capacity house at the Airdome last evening when the governor and federal mediator were prepared to set before the men their recommendations for disposing of the dispute between employers and employees. The meeting was conducted with W. J. Leary acting as chairman. Mr. Leary proved an efficient and cool presiding officer, and his method of handling questions from the floor and submitting motions won great praise.

The first action was to read the recommendations which appeared on the floor in this form: At the meeting it was evident that the sense of the meeting was in favor of a settlement and that the recommendations met with the hearty approval of the audience. In discussing the proposed commissary, a minor brought up the experience with a company store in Goldfield where he said prices were advanced by the company store after competition was crushed off. Mr. Leary explained that, under the system proposed by the governor and himself, management would be in the hands of the men, represented by the committee and several illustrations of the benefits of cooperation were given and it was stated that coal should not cost more than $12 a ton to the consumer instead of $18 to $19 as at present.

Governor Boyle, in reviewing the industrial crisis from the beginning of the war, took occasion to affirm that he was not here doing politics as he frequently heard. It made no difference to him how his constituents would vote, that his name would never appear again as a candidate for office as he would resume the practice of his profession after his term expired and he proposed devoting himself to his own business.

The governor compared the cost of operating the mines of Tonopah and the Divide and went on to show that the prevailing wage here was the highest in Nevada.

YOUNG BUCKAROO PASSES BAD CHECKS AND SKIPS

Robert Delore, a young vaquero who had been working in Paradise valley, victimized a number of Winemore people, including business men. He seemed to have no trouble in getting his checks cashed even by total strangers and put out worthless paper aggregating about $150. When the checks were presented at the local bank for payment Monday morning it was found that Delore's balance amounted to 74 cents. In the meantime Delore had hired an automobile owner to take him to Paradise valley. They stopped at a ranch and Delore paid his fare with a check, also worthless, and mounted a horse and rode away.
